

Jesus answered and said unto him, What I do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter. (John 13v7)

Sometimes we don't know what the Lord is up to in our lives. Hardships, heartaches, disappointments, and discomfort come from time to time, and we don't always understand them.

We start wondering if we've brought them upon ourselves through sin in our life, or whether the Lord is just working on us.

While taking these questions to the Lord in prayer and seeking His guidance, His words to Peter "on the night in which he was betrayed" bring great comfort that He's in control.

I'm so thankful that the Lord loves me and that He's in control of my life, and I'm so thankful that He knows exactly what He's doing even when I don't! Someday when we're with the Lord I suppose that the things that we don't understand in this life will be made clear.

What I do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter.
